

Home > Community Development > Community Engagement > Columbia World Affairs Council > Former President of Tunisia and Turkish Newspaper Executive in Exile Visit Columbia as US Administration Forms Its Foreign Policy

Former President of Tunisia and Turkish Newspaper Executive in Exile Visit Columbia as US Administration Forms Its Foreign Policy

21 Mar 2017 / Columbia World Affairs Council

 Columbia World Affairs Council, Content, Events, News & Updates, Politics, Press Releases

The Columbia World Affairs Council (CWAC) hosts both Dr. H.E Mohamed Moncef Marzouki, former president of Tunisia (2011–2014), and Abdülhamit Bilici, recently exiled editor-in-chief of the largest daily newspaper in Turkey, at separate speaking engagements in the coming weeks. The two leaders of democracy, human rights, and free press visit the capital city at a pivotal time for US foreign policy, Turkey, in particular.

Dr. Marzouki is the guest speaker for

RECENT POSTS

Pat Callahan raises ecological awareness through art

ARTS SUSTAINABILITY

21 Mar 2017

Dr. H.E Mohamed Moncef Marzouki

the CWAC’s Distinguished Speaker Series at noon, Thursday, March 23, at the Columbia Marriott (1200 Hampton). Marzouki was the first democratically elected president of Tunisia after the January 14th Revolution in 2011, a seminal moment in modern Arab history which heralded the onset of multiple popular revolutions throughout the Arab World.

Marzouki is a doctor of medicine, a human rights activist, an author of numerous works on political philosophy in the Arab world, and founder of the center-left Congress Party for the Republic (CPR). In 2015, he founded the Movement for Popular Citizenship (“Harak al sha’b al muwatineen”), a civil movement seeking to encourage active citizen participation amongst all Tunisians, particularly those marginalized under previous regimes.

The event is made possible through a partnership with the University of South Carolina’s Walker Institute of International & Area Studies and the Darla Moore School of Business. The Distinguished Speaker Series is sponsored by BlueCross BlueShield of South Carolina.

Abdülhamit Bilici

Mr. Bilici presents “The Recent Turmoil in Turkey & Freedom of the Press” at noon, Tuesday, April 4, at The Palmetto Club (1231 Sumter). Bilici is a prominent newspaper executive in exile following recent political turmoil and government oppression of the media in Turkey. Before leaving the country, Bilici served as editor-in-chief of the newspaper Zaman Daily and CEO of its English-language version, Today’s Zaman. He also served as general

Richland Library Named 2017 National Medal Finalist

EDUCATION NEWS & UPDATES

21 Mar 2017

Five schools named Palmetto’s Finest

EDUCATION

21 Mar 2017

_____ director of Cihan News Agency and as editor of Aksiyon Weekly Magazine. Bilici is an expert on Turkish politics and is widely sought as a speaker on the ongoing political crisis.

The luncheon program is hosted in partnership with the Atlantic Institute (AI) of South Carolina. The talk examines recent events in Turkey with a particular focus on the essential role of journalism in a democracy.

“The Atlantic Institute of South Carolina is pleased to partner with Columbia World Affairs Council to host Mr. Abdulhamit Bilici to discuss the recent turmoil in Turkey,” says Dr. Akif Aydin, president of AI, South Carolina.

“Turkey has been a vital U.S. ally for decades, but the recent, escalating crackdown on the opposition calls into question the sustainability of this partnership. The Turkish government’s increasing repression of dissidents and minorities also threatens the country’s hard-won democracy. At a time when Erdogan is aggressively seeking to expand his presidential powers, its domestic and foreign impact remains a separate question,” says Dr. Aydin.

For more information and registration, visit columbiaworldaffairs.org or contact Dickson Monk at dmonk@columbiaworldaffairs.org, 803-252-2197.

About the Columbia World Affairs Council:

Founded in 1993, the Columbia World Affairs Council (CWAC) is a private, non-profit, non-partisan organization in the Midlands region of South Carolina, located in the state capital. CWAC serves as the bridge between our local community and its global counterparts. In recent years, South Carolina has experienced rapid growth in international business, politics, and culture. Devoted to promoting intercontinental awareness in South Carolina, the Columbia World Affairs Council exists not only for the state’s benefit, but also for its citizens by enhancing their opportunities to engage in projects that are beneficial to the international community.

Like What You See?

Sign up for more great local goodness straight to your inbox!

Email address:

Share:

Comments

comments

□ Arab Spring, Atlantic Council, Columbia World Affairs Council, CWAC Speakers, Darla Moore School of Business, Democracy, Erdogan, Foreign Affairs, Foreign Policy, Free Press, International Relations, journalism, Tunisia, Turkey Politics, University of South Carolina, Walker Institute of International and Area Studies, World Affairs

□ Previous Post

Five Points Foundation Wraps
Up 35th Annual St. Pat's in Five Points

Next Post □

Richland Library Named 2017
National Medal Finalist

YOU MAY ALSO LIKE

Dancing for the Kids: USC
students prepare for Dance
Marathon Main Event

Ridge View
High School
Wins Columbia
World Affairs
Council
Regional 2017
Academic WorldQuest

UofSC student wins Rhodes Scholarship

Thanksgiving
Comes Early as UofSC
Professor
Teaches Lesson
on Importance of Expressing Gratitude

ABOUT POST AUTHOR

COLUMBIA WORLD AFFAIRS COUNCIL

Founded in 1993, the Columbia World Affairs Council (CWAC) is a private, non-profit, non-partisan organization in the Midlands region of South Carolina, located in the state capital. CWAC serves as the bridge between our local community and its global counterparts. In recent years, South Carolina has experienced rapid growth in international business, politics, and culture. Devoted to promoting intercontinental awareness in South Carolina, the Columbia World Affairs Council exists not only for the state's benefit, but also for its citizens by enhancing their opportunities to engage in projects that are beneficial to the international community.

Most Recent

Pat Callahan raises ecological awareness through art

ARTS SUSTAINABILITY

21 Mar 2017

Twitter

- RT @colatoday: What if you could have a say in the next proj that makes Cola cooler? You can w/ @WNMidlands + $100, 5:30 tonight @socowork... 22 hours ago

- RT @MidlandsHabitat: Checkout the newest article on our upcoming Women Build! Thanks @MidlandsAnchor #buildlikeagirl #habitat <https://t.co/...yesterday>

"Midlands Stories, Told Well"

The mission of the Anchor is to connect engaged citizens through regionally relevant stories.

803-513-8921

info@midlandsanchor.com

Richland Library Named 2017 National Medal Finalist

EDUCATION NEWS & UPDATES

21 Mar 2017

□ Meet Blue Sky, our 4th feature of #10artist10days! Read more about the man behind Tunnelvision & exclusive features...

<https://t.co/cqCZerAuhXyesterc>

Five schools named Palmetto's Finest

EDUCATION

21 Mar 2017